RUHR R'WAYS PROVE THORNY QUESTION AT LONDON MEET

Issue May Have To Be Settled By Whole Conference

PREMIERS CONFER

Plenary Session To Be Held Shortly, Belief

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 21.—The question of the Ruhr railways is proving a thorny one at the sittings of the Conference sub-committee and there is reason to believe that the matter will probably be referred back to the whole Conference.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, July 21.—Mr. MacDonald, M. Herriot, Signor Stefani and M. Theunis met today and passed in review the work of the committees. They considered that a plenary sitting might take place tomorrow if the second committee, charged with the withdrawal of pledges and the restoration of the economic unity of the Reich, succeeded in finishing its work. With regard to the military subcommittee examining the temporary regime over the Rhineland railways, difficulties have reappeared.

General Nollet and Sir Eyre Crowe have taken direction of the discussions. It was decided that the German railway authorities should be re-established after the execution of the conditions fixed by the Reparations Commission in order that the experts' plan may be considered to have entered into force.

M. Herriot will be received today by King George.

The financial experts, including MM Clementel, and Theunis, will meet today Mr. Lamont, partner of Messrs. Morgan's and Mr. Montagu Norman, the Governor of the Bank of England, to detail the conditions on which American bankers would provide for the issue of the projected loan.

M. Theunis told a representative of the Daily Telegraph: "I hope that the reparations problem will in good time receive the solution which has long been sought. France is working for peace. The Allied entente is re-established on a solid basis."

M. Herriot has telegraphed to M. Chicherin saying that he wished to approach the problem of Franco-Russian relations as soon as he returned to Paris. He asked the Soviet Government to facilitate the vissing of passports for representatives of French firms.

Peking Protests Against Stand Of Chile's Consul Here

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 22.—A Chinese news agency reports that a Cabinet meeting this morning resolved to instruct the Minister at Washington, Mr. Alfred Sze, to protest through the Chilean Ambassador at Washington against the attitude adopted by the Chilean Consul at Shanghai in claiming extraterritorial rights, which, the Cabinet are alleged to declare, the Sino-Chilean Treaty does not concede.

CRITICISM OF HSU IS NOT JUST SAYS NORTHERN PAPER

Shanghai Commissioner Has Done His Best, Reports Chen Shao-lu

Mr. Chen Shao-lu, who has been despatched by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs to proceed to Shanghai to assist the Commissioner of Foreign Affairs there in arranging for the return of the former Russian Consulate to the Soviet hands, has reported his arrival there and his entire satisfaction with the way in which the matter has hitherto been handled by the Commissioner, says the North China Standard of July 19. Much of his report is devoted to explaining the difficulties which have from the beginning confronted the Foreign Commissioner there. The fact that Mr. Hsu Yuan, the Commissioner of Foreign Affairs at Shanghai, has been serving during the past three and a half years as the Director of the Bureau for the Russian (Whites) residents, with Mr. Grosse, former Russian Consul, as his assistant Director, has made the matter more difficult and perhaps more complicated. It is said that the Bureau has been declared as abolished from July 1st, but it takes a good deal of time to wind up its affairs. Besides, as the Bureau has been located in the former Russian Consulate, it is physically impossible to vacate the place in such a hurry as the Soviet authorities seem to have desired.

Mr. Chen also points out the fact that the criticism that has been hurled at the Commissioner of Foreign Affairs at Shanghai, particularly by the members of the Soviet Mission in Peking, is not justified. Mr. Hsu Yuan has done his best. It must be born in mind that there is a large number of White Russians, who in the last few years have been depending upon the Bureau for help. They are now virtually desperate, since the Bureau will not be of help any longer, and any step taken in undue haste is liable to arouse the most serious trouble, the consequence of which none except those on the spot can readily realise.

It is also said that General Gleboff, the Commander of the White Russian fleet, lying off the Woosung port for the last year or so, has refused absolutely to surrender his ships—the ships the Soviet authorities very badly desire to get hold of. It is not advisable to take them by force, for in that case they are bound to resist, no matter how feeble the resistance may be. Any untoward incident that may arise out of the transfer is sure to be to the disadvantage of China.

The former Russian Consular premises have not as yet been transferred. Mr. Chen and Commissioner Hsu are working jointly for a satisfactory procedure to carry it out.

Four Killed When Vessel Is Rammed

(Reuter's American Service)

Boston, July 22.—The tanker Swift Arrow rammed the new passenger steamer Boston, voyaging from Boston to New York, today off Point Judith, R. I., in a fog. Four passengers were killed. The others were transferred to boats and are being picked up by the Swift Arrow and other ships which rushed up in response to calls for assistance sent out by the Boston. The heaviness of the fog is hampering the rescue work.

Dr. Koo Defines China's Position On Many Issues Now Pending In Peking

No Decision Yet On Time For Presenting Karakhan's Credentials As Ambassador; Foreign Creditors Of C. E. Railway Not Prejudiced By Sino-Russian Arrangement, Says Acting Premier

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 19.—In the midst of the many pressing affairs of State claiming his attention at the moment, the Minister for Foreign Affairs (Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo) found time this morning to receive the foreign correspondents and to answer a barrage of questions upon a wide range of topics.

Naturally the curiosity of the journalists chiefly displayed itself in regard to recent Sino-Russian developments, including the position of Mr. Karakhan and the handing over of the Russian Legation. The Foreign Minister confirmed the announcement of Mr. Karakhan's appointment as Soviet Ambassador to Peking but said that no time had yet been fixed for the latter to present his credentials to the President. That was a matter upon which, said Dr. Koo, the President's pleasure had to be ascertained. No decision had yet been reached as to who should be appointed Chinese Ambassador to Moscow but the matter was being most carefully considered. Questioned as to whether other Powers had been invited to follow the Soviet example and appoint Ambassadors to Peking, Dr. Koo said that steps had been taken informally to ascertain the views of some of the Powers on this matter but until replies had been received from all of them he did not wish to say what their views were. Probably a statement regarding this would be issued by the Waichiaopu later on.

Concerning the Russian Legation and the request made in the last Note by the Protocol Powers that the Foreign Minister should act as an intermediary, Dr. Koo said that so far as the Waichiaopu were concerned they were quite prepared to use their good offices to bring about a satisfactory settlemen and, personally, he did not anticipate much difficulty. The Note from the representative of the Protocol Powers was at present under study. Dr. Koo acquiesced in the view expressed by one correspondent that the situation in regard to Mr. Karakhan and the Diplomatic Body was "interesting" but smilingly declined to be drawn into a discussion of the respective rights of the Soviet Ambassador and the Dean of the Diplomatic Body to precedence at public functions. The matter of the Russian Consulate at Shanghai had, he announced, been settled.

The Chinese Eastern Railway's new status under the Sino-Russian agreement and the recent Notes on the subject exchanged between various interested Powers and the Waichiaopu formed the subject of some pertinent interrogations and the Foreign Minister was also asked to define the precise status of the conversations reported to be proceeding at Mukden between the Soviet Government and Marshal Chang Tso-lin. In regard to the latter, Dr. Koo pointed out that the natural answer was that in her dealings with foreign Powers China was represented by the Central Government, although there were occasions when local authorities, acting under instructions from the Waichiaopu, were charged with the responsibility of carrying on negotiations affecting local interests. He had not, he confessed, been apprised by Mr. Karakhan of any negotiations in Mukden.

Respecting obligations to foreign creditors of the Chinese Eastern Railway Dr. Koo emphasised that the arrangement recently made between China and the Soviet Government was not intended in any way to prejudice legitimate claims on the Railway. Indeed these claims could be made just as well now as ever they could before the Agreement was signed.

"We are making progress," was Dr. Koo's reply when a Japanese inquired about the rendition of Weihaiwei. We are trying to push forward as quickly as possible, but just now," he admitted, "there are no negotiations going on."

Dealing with the prospect of a trade agreement with Siam, Dr. Koo said that China had considerable commercial interests in that country, where her nationals constituted a quarter of the population of 8,000,000 or so, and was naturally anxious to arrange a commercial treaty.

He had, he said, seen reports in the press about the rumoured "British aggression" in Tibet but, as far as he knew, there had been no official confirmation of anything of the kind.

PASSENGER TELLS OF CONDITIONS ON KALGAN LINE

Rapid Repair Work Made On Railway After Flood

The following account of conditions between Kalgan and Peking just after the floods appears in the North China Daily Mail, as given by Mr. S. N. Voetzky, of the Transmongolian Company, one of the first passengers to get through after the interruption of the railway.

He says there were reported to be six interruptions in the line south of Kalgan caused by the floods, but so quickly was the repair and clearance work done by the railway staff that he only had to alight once from the train, namely at a point 10 miles this side of Hsingchuangize, where the rails were under water. The passengers expected to find another train awaiting them on the other side of the flood water, which they crossed by boat, but no train was to be seen where the line emerged. They therefore started out on foot and made an eight-mile walk, baggage in hand, to the nearest railway station, an arduous effort.

After a two-hours wait at the station, they were cheered by the arrival of a train. The train made slow progress, however, to Kangchuantze, as the line had only just been cleared. The village of Kangchuan had been destroyed, and very few coolies were to he had. On some of the branch lines, but not on the main line, the rails were seen projecting into the air, the foundation having been washed away. On the main line the broken stone had gone in many places, but had been temporarily replaced with sand. The engine therefore had to proceed warily as far as Nankow and Sha-ho, but afterwards there was no further trouble. The train arrived four hours late.

Mr. Voetzky speaks highly of the rapid and difficult arrangements made at Kalgan for the relief of the poorer class of sufferers. It was evident that in the absence of food and shelter there was danger of the flood victims taking steps on their own account and making raids, but nothing of the sort occurred. Funds were at once provided, and grain, and relief tickets were issued at the railway station, to the great satisfaction of the ruined villagers who thus obtained food and made the best of the situation. One party headed by M. Yang, assistant to the local Commissioner for Foreign Affairs, went personally from village to village inquiring as to the need of relief. There appeared to be two organisations at work, one whose delegates wore a white band on their arm and the other a red swastika, but of their constitution Mr. Voetzky was not aware.

Ex-Peking Premier In U. S. Capital, Denies He Seeks Loan

(BY UNITED PRESS)

Washington, July 21.—The State Department has received and is closely studying the Sino—Russian agreement, including the supplementary agreement covering the Chinese Eastern Railway. State Department officials are particularly interested in the question whether China has granted to Russia a special sphere of influence which in any way violates the Washington Conference agreement. The documents are being carefully scrutinised to see whether American rights have been infringed.

Liang Shih-yi, former Peking Premier, is at present in Washington, and today he made strong denial of persistent reports that he is here with the object of negotiating a loan from non-Consortium banks. He declared his visit was purely of a private nature.

LORD PEEL ASKS FOR STATEMENT ON INDIAN POLICY

Secretary Of State For Colony Declines To Anticipate Lee Committee

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 22.—The House of Lords last night debated the Indian situation on the initiative of Viscount Peel, who asked for a full Government statement of policy.

He drew special attention to the general constitutional situation, the question of applying the report of the Lee Commission, dealing with the acceleration of the Indianisation of some services and the provincialisation of other services, and the improvement of the financial conditions and security of tenure of European civil servants in India, whose recruitment in Britain was recently becoming difficult.

Lord Olivier, the Secretary of State for India, replying, declared that, owing to the magnitude of the issues involved, it was impossible to pass judgment on the Lee recommendations within such a short period. In the mean time he sympathised with the claims of the civil service. He declared that recruiting in Britain for certain services had been temporarily suspended under the recommendations of the report, but British recruiting for the pivotal services was being continued. In this connection he did not fear being unable to get sufficient applicants. With regard to constitutional reform Lord Olivier declined to pre-judge the report of the committee which was at present exhaustively exploring the situation.

Boer Ex-General's Sentence Annulled

(Reuter's Service)

Capetown, July 21.—The new Government has released Maritz, the Boer ex-General who was sentenced to three years' imprisonment on a charge of high treason in connection with the 1914 rebellion. It will be remembered that the judge explained at the trial that the lightness of the sentence was due to the accused's sufferings in years of exile, while his fellow offenders had been released after a short period of imprisonment. Maritz has only served three months of his sentence.

Government Again Suffers Defeat In Commons Ballot

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 22.—The Government's score of defeats now totals ten after the passage of two adverse votes in the committee stage of the Housing Bill in the House of Commons. In the first case a Liberal amendment was passed by 201 votes to 155 and in the second case a Labor amendment, which the Government had accepted, was rejected by 137 votes to 119. In both cases, however, Mr. Wheatley, the Minister of Health, accepted the decision of the House.

In the course of the debate Mr. Wheatley surprisingly announced a virtual agreement of the builders' unions regarding the provision for skilled workers, outlined in the scheme, speeding up the process of apprenticeship by the enlistment of the assistance of technical schools and evening classes, and also the promotion of semi-skilled laborers.

BILLIARD CUPS KIDNAPED FROM SHANGHAI CLUB

Sartorial Barboy Extracts Trophies But Is Quickly Captured

The Shanghai Amateur Billiard Association and the Shanghai Club [illegible] section were thrown into confusion yesterday morning when it was discovered that the championship cups of the Association and the Club—heavy pieces of plate valued at about $300—had disappeared from their accustomed resting places in the billiard room of the Club.

The Shanghai Amateur Billiard Association Cup, won by Capt. E. I. M. Barrett during the last season, and the Club Championship trophy, won by Mr. Gordon Morriss, were among the proudest exhibits on the shelves of the Club. Thus, and justifiedly so, there was consternation. A clew developed yesterday morning when a nervous pawnbroker, whose establishment is located in Woosung Road, reported to Hongkew police station that he had a couple of silver goblets with foreign characters engraved upon them.

Detective Sub-Inspector Hunter of Central station gathered up this clew and in a few minutes had the missing silverware in his possession. Working on the description furnished by the pawnshop assistant, he was not long in tracing the thief. The latter proved to be the No. 18 barboy in the Shanghai Club.

Yesterday afternoon the police, under Inspector Hunter's instruction were able to round up the suspect at the New World, on Bubbling Well Road.

It then developed that the thief had collared the cups and had lowered them out of the back window of the billiard room to a sand heapbelow by means of a fish line. Later he collected the loot and early in the morning took it to the pawnbroker, who passed out $35 in return.

The accused, who will appear in the Mixed Court today, was nattily dressed in foreign costume at the time of his arrest—jazz pants, sun-cloth coat and white and tan sport shoes—and according to indications was not only a Beau Brummel but a factor among the gals. When his lodgings were searched a number of scorching love epistles, written in English and ready for directing, were found. One of them read as follows, and indicates the tenor of the lot:

"Dearest Miss: Address please, and your name too."

The signature appended was "Eddie Lolo."

HUGHES PAYS HIGH TRIBUTE TO BRITAIN AT JURISTS' MEET

Refers To Westminster Hall As "Fireside Of Justice"

BAR WELCOMED

Impressive Ceremony As American Guests Are Greeted

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 21.—There was an historic gathering at Westminster Hall today on the occasion of the official welcome to the American Bar Association. The ceremony was most impressive and began with a procession of 26 Law Lords and Judges, headed by the Lord Chancellor, resplendent in their scarlet and ermine robes of office. They then took their seats on a dais.

In response to the summons of Viscount Haldane, the Lord Chancellor, the Attorney-General in an eloquent speech presented the guests. Viscount Haldane delivered a fine speech of welcome. He recalled some of the great legal figures of the past who had sat in that Hall.

Mr. Hughes, the American Secretary of State, replied in a great oratorical effort. In conclusion he said: "Here we sit together at the fireside in the old home of justice." Mr. Justice Sutherland also replied.

The ceremony concluded with a procession of judges.

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 22.—Mr. Hughes, the United States Secretary of State, was the guest at a dinner of the Pilgrims Society last night. The Duke of Connaught presided and the Prince of Wales, Members of the Cabinet and many distinguished personages, including overseas representatives, were present.

The Chairman, proposing the health of the guest, said that they appreciated very highly the services Mr. Hughes had rendered to the world and mankind by the generous manner in which he had always regarded different important questions. His presence in London at present was greatly important. There was a warm feeling in England towards America. Anything which would promote that feeling would be of lasting interest to the whole world.

The Prince of Wales, supporting the Chairman, said that he hoped to visit the United States again in the autumn.

Mr. Hughes, replying, said that America could be counted upon as a non-aggressive power, devoted to the interests of peace. They believed that the Dawes plan opened the path to confidence and prosperity and they were therefore deeply interested in its prompt execution.

French Journal Sees U. S.-Japanese War Possibility

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, July 21.—The Left organ, the Ere Nouvelle, defending Britain's refusal to join the pact of mutual assistance drafted by the League of Nations, says that Frenchmen forget nowadays that Britain depends on her Dominions as much as and perhaps more than the Dominions depend on Britain. It is just as important for Britain to assure peace in the Pacific as in Europe.

The possibility of a conflict between the United States and Japan looms on the horizon and it will be impossible for Australia and, therefore, Britain to remain indifferent to it. The League's draft pact in no way assures peace in the Pacific, because the United States refuse to adhere to it.

If Britain accepted the pact, she would be giving Japan a purely one-sided assurance.

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 22.—Canada's letter to the League of Nations, declining to adhere to the pact of mutual assistance, supports Mr. Ramsay MacDonald's objections. It points out that Canada has always disapproved of the obligations involved in Article X of the League Covenant, while the proposed pact creates even wider obligations.

BAPTISTS MEET FOR CONFERENCE IN NORTH CHINA

(China Press Correspondence)

Hwanghsien, Shantung, July 17.—The North China Mission of the Southern Baptist Convention has just concluded its meeting in Chefoo. There were about sixty people in attendance including the following stations: Laiyang, Hwanghsien, Chefoo, Laichowfu, Pingtu, Tsingtao, Tsinanfu, and Tsiningchow. Dr. P. S. Evans of Tsinan was elected as chairman and Mr. I. V. Larson of Laiyang was made secretary. Mr. and Mrs. Leonard, formerly of Laichowfu, left after the meeting for Harbin, where they will settle and carry on Baptist work. They were accompanied by Dr. and Mrs. C. E. James of Tennessee, who have been in the Language School in Peking. He will probably be the first medical missionary to the Chinese north of Mukden.

The missionaries had the privilege of being entertained while in Chefoo by the American Consul, Mr. John R. Putnam, on the Fourth of July at a reception. Later they joined other American and British citizens as guest of Admiral Washington of the Asiatic Fleet, at a reception given in honor of Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Schurman, United States Minister to China.

The recent rains here have swollen the rivers in this section. It seemed before the rains that there was danger of serious drought and damage to the crops. The rainfall on Monday saved the situation and the crops are looking more hopeful. No doubt the yield in this immediate section will be reduced by the continued drought in the first two weeks of July.

The Chefoo-Weihsien Motor Line, owned and operated by Chinese, is making some improvements in the service. Up to recently, one was smashed in by the huge quantity of baggage carried by the passengers and was in many cases exceedingly uncomfortable. Now when a passenger carries more baggage than he can carry in his hand, he is presented with a brass check upon payment of excess baggage, and this is placed in a special baggage car until his arrival at his destination, thus obviating the overloading of cars and discomfort to passengers. There has also been a further reduction in fares. It was announced today that postal trucks would begin today to transport all but very heavy mails. This will be a great advantage to interior places in point of time saved in mail transportation.

Two Lose Lives In Garage Fire

Two Chinese were killed in a fire at the Asia Motor Company's premises in Avenue Edward VII, French Concession, Monday morning. The two victims were in a back room at the time the fire broke out, apparently from a burst petrol tank on one of the cars. They were overcome by the fumes and had no chance to escape. Several other Chinese on the premises had narrow escapes.

The fire was subdued by the French Volunteer Department, the Settlement Brigade standing by to render aid if it had been found necessary. Several adjoining houses were more or less badly burned before the flames were checked.

Disgraceful Scenes At Paris May Sound Death Knell Of Olympic Games

Americans Principal Victims Of Unsportsmanlike Treatment, Says British Correspondent; Decision Changed After French Officials Received Ultimatum From English Speaking Nations

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 21.—Disorderly incidents following numerous decisions at the Olympic Games are creating grave doubts among British Olympic Games correspondents as to whether Britain will ever again compete.

The Paris correspondent of the Times enumerates the unsportsmanlike and sometimes disgraceful scenes, of which, he states, the Americans have been the principal victims, although several other nations have cause for complaint. He alludes to the culminating case of the British boxer, Mallin, who, it is alleged, was fouled by a French boxer, though the latter received the decision. After that all the English-speaking nations, Britain, America, Canada, Australia and South Africa, announced their intention to withdraw en bloc unless the decision were reversed. This was done, but the correspondent declares that the fact demonstrated that the games exacerbate international bitternesses instead of soothing them.

The Times, in a leading article, endorses this opinion. It anticipates that the Americans share the British view and that the death-knell of the Olympic Games has sounded.

Tsingtao Race Club Has First Meeting, Big Crowd Out Despite Bad Weather

Paul Jernigan And Governor Kao En-hung Speak At Opening Ceremony; Latter Sees New Evidence Of Friendship; Results

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tsingtao, July 19.—A steady drizzle failed to damp the ardor of those who attended the opening day of the First Race Meeting of the International Recreation Club yesterday afternoon. In spite of the heavy going there were some fast brushes and highly interesting races, and the opening proved an auspicious one. More than 1,000 people were present.

Mr. Paul Jernigan, in officially opening the course, spoke of the enthusiasm which had greeted the formation of the club.

The Governor, Mr. Kao En-hung, said that the organisation was an evidence of cordial understanding and co-operation among the different nationalities represented in Tsingtao. He was sure that the club would contribute towards the promotion of international friendship which was indispensable for a cosmopolitan city like Tsingtao.

The Governor and Admiral Wen were presented with ponies by the Club.

Chinese Soccer XI In New Zealand

"Telegraphic news has just been received from Wellington, New Zealand, stating that the Chinese Soccer Football Team which left last month for the summer season, has reached Wellington, New Zealand safely and all are well.

An itinerary of the games schedule was apparently not included in the letter recently received; hence, it is impossible to know in which cities games are being played.

The team drew its first match and lost the second. The team will be returning to China by the end of October.

AMERICANS WIN TENNIS FINALS AT PARIS GAMES

Hunter And Richards Beat French Pair In Doubles

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Paris, July 21.—In the final of the Olympic lawn tennis doubles, Hunter and Richards (America) beat Brugnon and Cochet (France), 4-6, 6-2, 6-3, 2-6, 6-3.

In the Mixed Doubles final Williams and Mrs. Wightman (America beat Richards and Mrs. Jessup (America) 6-2, 6-3.

In the play-off for the third place by the beaten semi-finalists in the doubles Borotra and Lacoste (France), beat Condon and Richardson (South Africa) 6-3, 10-8, 6-3.

The final placings were: America 55 points, France 28 points, Britain 16 points, Italy and Holland 4 points, and South Africa 3 points.

In the final of the doubles the game began listlessly in close, overcast weather. Periods of baseline play, broken by occasional rallies and excursions to the net livened up the third set. Cochet made brilliant smashes and Richards was serving brilliantly. Richards dominated the fourth set, though Cochet was irresistible, and his very accurate placing frequently caught the Americans out of position. The Americans brought to bear a steady and determined pressure in the final set.

OPEN NEW AVENUE IN AMERICA FOR RUSSIAN TRADE

Soviet Covernment Directly Linked With New York Corporation

New York, June 19.—How Russia has been strengthening her trade position with the United States by arranging for direct commercial relations was revealed here yesterday by Isaiah J. Hoorgin, Chairman of the newly-established Amtorg Trading Corporation, a consolidation of the Arcos-America, Inc., and the Products Exchange Corporation. Amtorg will act as the exclusive representative in America of the Russian Gostorg, or State Export and Import Department, while at the same time being the sole represenative in America of Arcos, Ltd., of London, which is the selling and buying agent for the Soviet Government in the United Kingdom.

The new corporation, formed under the laws of New York State about three weeks ago and capitalized at $1,000,000, will have as its forwarding agents and ship brokers the Deutsch-Russiche Transport Geselschaft, or Derutra, in which the W. A. Harriman interests and Hamburg-American Line own 50 percent of the control and the Russian Soviet Government the other half. Derutra, it was learned yesterday, is the shipping organization which is now handling all goods directly exported from the United States to Russia and vice versa. It is the business of this organization to supply the necessary boats through charter and to transport the goods. It has been functioning since November, 1922, which accounts in some degree for the already impressive movement of trade between unrecognized Russia and this country, the transport business being denied to the regular steamship services of this country because of non-recognition.

It was pointed out in The New York Times last week that there had been purchased in this country since the first of the year between $35,000,000 and $40,000,000 worth of cotton by the All-Russian Textile Syndicate on credits supplied to the American corporation of the syndicate by one New York bank and that $20,000,000 worth of this American cotton already had been paid for in American dollars. The Amtorg Trading Corporation will arrange for the purchase of and exportation of agricultural and other machinery, electrical supplies, tractors, motor trucks and automobiles, oil-well supplies, cotton, coal-mine machinery, manufactured leather and leather goods, and other American products. On the other hand, it will bring into the United States furs, flax, ore, medicinal plants and other products of Russia.

So far as the export phase of Amtorgn's business is concerned, it will be supported by New York bank credits, as in the case of the All-Russian Textile Syndicate. According to Mr. Hoorgin, several New York banks are party to these credits.

"Russia's needs for American goods are greater now than they were before the war," said Mr. Hoorgin, who is also one of the directors of Derutra. "She is quickly regaining her place in the world commerce field, and American industry can find a good market in Russia now. Our Russian organizations are much interested in trading with America, but it is necessary to understand that British and German firms have the advantage by reason of their already established connections with the Russian consumer and because of the credits which became available for this trade through official recognition of Soviet Russia.

"In pre-war days the direct trade between the United States and Russia was very small. The trade was then handled largely through intermediate British and German firms, as the result of which the United States was deprived of a large volume of the business.

"Russia's purchases of cotton through the All-Russian Textile Syndicate are an indication of the possibilities. Next year the Russian textile business will have reached its pre-war level, and other industries are showing corresponding gains. Russia has accomplished in two years a growth which has already brought her industries to 50 percent or more of pre-war volume."

The direct connections of the Amtorg Trading Corporations in Russia extend to most of the greatest Soviet industrial concerns, such as the coal trust, the sugar trust, the Caucasian oil trust, the electric trust, agricultural machinery syndicate and similar organizations. Amtorg's American branch is located at 136 Liberty Street. Its Board of Directors consists of Mr. Hoorgin (Russian), John G. Ohsol (American), Isaac J. Sherman (American), and Paul J. Ziev (Russian). Mr. Ziez is President.

The trade in 1923 of the two corporations which are now merged in the Amtrog Trading Corporation averaged $1,000,000 a month, Mr. Hoorgin said, adding that this average should be greatly increased with the more direct connections made available by the new corporation.

Mr. Hoorgin, when asked about reports published yesterday that private traders were being driven out of Russia by alleged repressive methods exercised by the Soviet authorities, said that the Government uses no repressive methods, but does compete with private traders.

CONSCRIPTION OF WEALTH URGED BY G. B. SHAW

Noted Writer Favors Program Advanced By Labor in England

Norwich, Eng., June 13.—George Bernard Shaw aligned himself with the advocates of wealth conscription in time of war at a recent meeting here of the Independent Labor Party. He was discussing the lesson to be drawn from the Great War, a lesson, according to him, in the inefficiency of private enterprise and the efficiency of public management.

While the mass of the people had to go into the trenches in the war and make tremendous sacrifices, were the propertied classes requested to give their money in the same terms, he asked? Oh, no. He gave some of that money. He mentioned that, because when he told the audience that he was the holder of £20,000 war loan they would respect him. The Government did not conscript his money. They simply said: "If you will just hand over your money to us for the sake of the war we will pay you 5 percent." He said, "Jolly! I thought you were going to say 4 percent."

Mr. Shaw said the Government could have raised the money at 4 percent. The Government got the money, but the Labor Party was of opinion that that money should have been conscripted precisely in the same way as the "lives and bodies of the people were conscripted." The Labor Party said it was monstrous that there should have been men who, as capitalists, made no sacrifice whatever, but simply took advantage of a good investment, who made money at the expense of the vast mass of men who fought and worked and laid down their lives to the tune of about 1,000,000.

And so, Mr. Shaw pointed out, there was going to be a redistribution of the burden. The Labor Party was going to levy a tax that ought to have been levied during the war. If these gentlemen (the capitalists) did not contribute then, they would have to contribute now. The levy would have to be made on income; they must have a redistribution of income. That was what the Labor Party was out for. That was the most urgent thing in the world at the present moment. Wealth had become an outrageous scandal.

"But we want something that lies deeper than politics," Mr. Shaw continued. "We want principles, and principles in the largest sense of religion." Without a religion nothing could be done.

EXPERTS WORK ON SCHEME TO SAVE NIAGARA

Niagara Falls, New York.—Hebert Hoover, here to inspect power development projects and steam control plans in the Niagara River, preliminary to a tour of the Saint Lawrence, is to view experiments preformed by engineers on a working model of the Niagara cataract in an effort to devise means of forestalling forces believed to threaten the beauty of the falls.

Standing before a waterfall seven feet high, a miniature reconstruction of the American and Canadian falls effected by means of surveys and special airplane photographs and estimated by engineers to approach within one-half inch of accuracy, with the rapids above and the surging gorge below measured to scale, Mr. Hoover will view the result to various experiments with weirs and artificial islands in regulating the flow over the crest.

Opinion has been expressed by engineers that the cataract if left further to its own devices, eventually will destroy its own beauty of contour. It is estimated that 80 percent of the water passing over the combined 4000-foot crest of the American and Canadian Falls, is concentrated in the comparatively narrow throat of the Horseshoe Falls. Thus, it is maintained, the throat is receding more than the average six feet per year that it is estimated the limestone face of the falls has given up in its battle with erosion, to the accompaniment of retarded cutting on the outspread wings, with gradual destruction of the circular contour.

LONDON'S MAZE OF TRAFFIC IS GREAT PROBLEM

Sir Lynden Macassey Points Out Lack Of System

London.—The Wembley Exhibition and the closing of Waterloo Bridge have conspired to accentuate traffic difficulties in London, which were already troublesome enough. Sir Lynden Macassey, an authority on this topic, expounded his views recently before the Royal Society of Arts.

Sir Lynden pointed out that London's streets were not arranged for motor traffic, for fast traffic, or for so much of it. Neither were the streets laid out on any definite plan. They just grew up so. Nearly all of the points noted by the Royal Commission 20 years ago were valid today except that the motor bus had developed wonderfully, and through tickets were available by tram, bus, and tube. But of real control there was none. Any person who could obtain a license from the police could run a bus on any route he chose without any control as to time-table, fares, etc. The same lack of control applied also to the railways.

LONDON TRAFFIC BILL

The commission of which he had been a member had examined every phase of the traffic problem and had compared London conditions with those of Paris, Berlin and Vienna, and it had enumerated the advantages which would accrue from a co-ordination plan for "traffic London." This was many years ago, and it was only recently that a London Traffic Bill had been introduced into Parliament. This bill, said Sir Lynden, was at least a cradle out of which a really effective traffic authority might be ultimately reared. An important provision of the bill dealt with the execution of repair work on streets. At present any one or more of the authorities possessing the necessary powers could break up the streets in the course of its work without any co-ordination, so that a whole series could, and has, kept a main thoroughfare "up" for weeks at a time.

In another clause of the bill the Minister of Transport took power to limit, during certain hours, the number of omnibuses plying for hire in any street or part of a street when, for any reason, the number would seem to be excessive. This provision had seemed necessary to the Royal Commission nearly 20 years ago, so how much more necessary was it today. In Sir Lynden Macassey's opinion this bill marks an earnest attempt by the Government to carry out improvements in London traffic recommended long ago by the commission.

TO RELIEVE CONGESTION

In the discussion which followed, Sir Alfred Yarrow described his scheme for a high-level crossing at places where the volume of traffic necessitated constant holding up, such as Oxford Circus, to mention only one in London. Sir Alfred said that he had been much struck by the absence of horses in Seattle, which he thought foreshadowed the same thing for London, and he eulogized also Seattle's method of indicating crossing places for pedestrians by white lines between which wheeled traffic was bound to slow right down, but outside these lines it could travel as fast as it liked. He had put forward his scheme for high-level crossings to deal with the number of cars on the road today, which number might well be doubled in 10 years' time.

Chief Constable Bassom, who is the police traffic superintendent for London, said that, in spite of the huge increase of traffic, London's streets were mostly no wider than they were 50 years ago and that by reason of the congestion traffic was now slower than it was some years ago. Of one thing he was certain, and that was that something must be done at once. With regard to the Seattle scheme of crossings between white lines his experience of London's population, which covered a number of years, was that the average person would cross where he wanted to, irrespective of subways or indicating marks.

ОБ'ЯВЛЕНИЕ.

Постановлением Всероссийского Центального Исполнительного Комитета от 3 ноября 1921 года об'явлена амнистия лицам, участвовавшим в военных организациях Колчака, Деникина, Врангеля, Савинкова, Петлюры, Булак-Балаховича, Перемыкина и Юденича в качестве рядовых солдат путем обмана или насильственно втянутых в борьбу против Советской Власти.

Советская Россия боролась с вооруженным врагами рабочих и крестьян, неисчислимыми жертвами и лишениями трудящихся победила их в открытом бою. Во время тяжелой и упорной борьбы Советское Правительство знало, что тысячи русских трудящихся, путем обмана и насилия, втянуты в борьбу с Рабоче Крестянской Властью. Этих обманутых людей водили в бой за чужое им дело и когда им пришлось очутиться на чужбине, их бросили на произвол судьбы. Они оказались сейчас выброшенными из родных сел, деревень и станиц Жестокая судьба разбросала их по различным уголкам мира.

Советская власть не может равнодушно относиться к судьбе этих рабочих и крестьян, которые, понял свои заблуждения, стремятся вернуться на родину, чтобы здесь своим трудом искупить свои ошибки и помочь восстановлению народного хозяйства.

Постановлением Всероссийского Центрального Исполнительного Комитета от 9 июня 1924 года распространена амнистия 3 ноября 1921 года на всех рядовых солдат белых армий, находящихся на Дальнем Востоке, Монголии и Западном Китае.

Правом амнистии пользуются солдаты со званием не выше унтер офицера.

Прием заявлений от лиц на коих распространяется амнистия и желающих возвратиться в СССР производится в Канцелярии Представительства СССР в Шанхае ежедневно с 10 до 12 час. дня, кроме суббот и воскресений.

RUSSIA NOW BUYING SILVER IN GREATER QUANTITIES

World Markets Affected By Soviet's Large Demands

MINTING COINS

Exports From America Are Increasing Rapidly

The continued demand for silver by Russia is having a strong influence on the silver market in London, New York and Shanghai. It is reported from London that the dealers there are trying to anticipate a severe "squeeze" among bullion dealers in China.

Recently Indian exchange reached parity with the New York price, and India entered the American market as a relatively large silver buyer for the first time in several weeks. India has been selling silver in London and in China but not to any pronounced extent.

Silver stocks in Shanghai at the present time are estimated at around $60,000,000, about the same volume as for the past few weeks, but recent contracts for sycee indicated that there was an actual shortage.

MINTING SOVIET COINS

It was reported from London that "the British Treasury has already started on an order to mint 45,000,000 coins for the Soviet Government. That is the first Great Britain has received from the Soviet Government since the two countries patched up their diplomatic differences. The coins also will be the first Soviet coins ever minted. The negotiations occupied several weeks, and eventually the Soviet was forced to accept the British terms, which called upon Russia to furnish the necessary silver and alloy, and for payment of the work upon delivery.

"The coins are mostly one, two and five ruble pieces. The design is the work of an Englishman, although suggested by the Soviet. It is exceedingly plain, one side carrying the Soviet coat of arms and the other the value of the coin and the date. The minting is taken as an indication that the Soviets are abandoning their theoretical economic policy of using goods to displace money, and have now adopted a definite currency policy."

Bullion dealers in New York have expressed the opinion that this Russian silver demand is apparently unlimited since the requirements of that country represent a rather large amount. There is no important change in the European currency situation outside of Russia. Silver stocks held by the principal banks there remain unchanged. In Germany despite the new silver currency, requirements are still severe and another issue is anticipated at an early date.

Silver exports from the United States for the first five months of this year amounted to G. $42,928,841 compared with $21,679,462 last year, and $27,154,462 two years ago. For the first six months exports will be around G. $50,000,000, or about 75,000,000 ounces against 50,000,000 ounces last year.

London in May increased its silver imports from the United States to G. $3,415,700 against $97,810 in April, and $353,698 in March. India took G. $22,000,000 compared with less than $5,000,000 in the corresponding period of last year. The new Russian currency consumption were back of the larger London imports.

U. S. SILVER IMPORTS

Silver imports into the United States for the first five months of the present year were G. $29,748,428 against $22,254,415 last year and $28,531,725 two years ago. Mexican imports were larger than last year, but less than in the first five months of 1921. Peru also increased its shipments.

From Washington it is learned that the Pittman Bill, directing the United States Treasury to complete the purchase of G. $14,500,000 in domestic silver at $1 an ounce, will be brought up early in the new session of Congress in December. Senator Pittman also is gathering additional evidence on the question of the right of the Federal Reserve to use silver dollars to "stabilize exchange" and the use of these silver dollars in November, 1919, and early in 1920, to the final extent of G. $56,000,000. The Senator claims that this right exists only under the old Pittman law, and is separate from the exchange of silver certificates. If he is right, this would mean the purchase by the Government of about 56,000,000 ounces. The Federal Trade Commission will be forced, it is said, to render an opinion on the legal position of the proposed silver export association under the Webb-Pomerene Act.

SECURITY FRAUDS PUT AT BILLION A YEAR IN U. S.

New York District Attorney Would Place Business Under Banking Law

Buffalo, June 12.—More than $1,750,000,000 is stolen every year from the people of the United States, declared District Attorney Banton of New York in an address today at the 29th annual convention of the National Association of Credit Men. Of this he said, $160,000,000 was lost through commercial frauds; $600,000,000 through fraudulent claims against insurance companies, and $1,000,000,000 through worthless securities.

"Every cent of this enormous sum of $1,850,000,000 not only has been stolen, but has been diverted from legitimate business and commerce and to the extent of each cent of such larceny, legitimate business and commerce have been injured," said Mr. Banton.

"What can be done to check this enormous waste? There are only two ways that I know of in which these crimes may be stopped. As to the loss through false statements to obtain credit and through false proofs of loss against insurance companies; the only way that I can see to prevent their recurrence is through speedy and effective prosecution of those who commit the crimes and prison sentences but there should be legislation which would prevent such crimes."

REVIEWS CASES

"Over 2,500 cases have been submitted to my office since September 8, 1922, when this department was established and this court created as an experiment. Of that number about 850 have come from the different credit associations represented in this body. Of the complaints received, 98 have been submitted to the fraud division of the Magistrate's Court; six are awaiting hearing; two have been dismissed by the Magistrate, and properly so; the remaining number have been held for trial in Special Sessions; with the exception of nine cases which belong to the Court of General Sessions.

"Eighty-three cases, therefore, have reached the Court of Special Sessions and all have been convicted and sentenced, with the exception of two, who were properly acquitted. In other words, since Sept. 9, 1922, 81 persons in New York County who defrauded our bankers and merchants have been convicted. This is probably more than the aggregate number of all of those who have been convicted in the history of the criminal courts of the County of New York preceding that date.

"What has been the result? There has been a marked decrease in this crime in the courts of New York. One prominent merchant called on me a few days ago and stated that he knew of two cases of large concerns that were contemplating bankruptcy but which had obtained financial relief sufficient to continue their business and avert bankruptcy, because they knew that prison was staring the members of these concerns in the face. In addition to this concrete evidence, it is reported to me that there is considerable consternation among the members of the bankruptcy ring in New York, for I hope yet to have a case in which I can convict the crooked lawyer and accountant who assist the merchant in making his false financial statement to obtain credit.

BUCKET SHOP FRAUDS

"I have had a number of conferences with the representatives of the insurance interests of New York in an effort to bring relief to them such as has been brought to the merchants and bankers. Unfortunately, the penal law of New York makes the filing of a false proof of loss a felony. It is my plan, with the co-operation of the insurance interests of this State, to go before the Legislature at its next session and ask that the law be amended so that the filing of a false proof of loss shall be a misdemeanor rather than a felony, and we may dispose of these cases in our fraud court as we have disposed of our false financial statement cases. If we succeed in this amendment, I believe that we shall reduce the amount stolen through false proofs of loss by two-thirds.

"Another appalling list of crimes that may be attributed to frauds are those in which the bucketeer and promoter of fraudulent securities shine. It has been my lot as District Attorney to prosecute more of these cases than all of my predecessors combined. These crimes can be prevented by legislation; that is, in so far as any crime can be prevented.

"In the three years in which 89 brokerage firms failed in New York County alone, only two banks under the supervision of the State Superintendent of Banks failed. It will be interesting to note that while the brokers failed with more than $116,000,000 liabilities and little or no assets, the two banks that failed had less than $500,000 liabilities and the depositors will receive about 8 percent of their deposits. You will be interested to note that, while it takes me on an average of eighteen months to convict one broker, I convicted the first failing banker in less than a month and a half. During the same period only one insurance company has liquidated, and it has liquidated at 100 cents on the dollar.

"What is necessary? Treat brokers as we treat bankers; put them all under the supervision of the State Superintendent of Banks and by supervision eliminate the bucketeer and the promoter of spurious securities, and save to the world the $1,000,000,000 a year that now are stolen by promoters of spurious securities."

BIRTH

ANDERSEN: to Mr. and Mrs. J. Andersen, on July 22nd, 1924, at the Victoria Nursing Home, a daughter.

The New German Bank Of Issue

ACCORDING to the report of the Dawes Committee on German Reparations, which is now under consideration at the Allied conference in London, the central part of the scheme is to be a Bank of Issue which will be granted the exclusive right to circulate bank notes. The capital of the new bank will be 400,000,000 gold marks or approximately G.$100,000,000 for which stock is to be sold both within Germany and abroad.

The notes of this bank are to be the only paper currency circulated in Germany and are to take the place of all present currency and of the issues of the interim gold bank which has just been established with a preliminary loan in New York and London. The capital of the new Bank of Issue will all be paid up in gold or foreign credits and it will, according to the preliminary plan, carry a minimum reserve of 33 1-3 percent, but it is proposed, in view of the general state of restriction in Europe, that convertibility shall not be imperative at first. Restrictions as to investments on the part of the bank are to be similar to those of all central banks, except that they are more stringent against loans to the Government.

From the standpoint of organisation and control the President or Managing Director of the Bank shall be a German and the executive board shall be composed of Germans, but the general board of directors shall be composed of 14 members, 7 of whom shall be Germans and the other 7 consisting of one each of the following nationalities: American, British, French, Italian, Belgian, Dutch and Swiss. A Commissioner who shall be of non-German nationality shall be elected by a majority vote of at least nine members, of whom the foreign members shall constitute at least six. The duties of the Commissioner are described as follows in the Economic Bulletin of the National City Bank of New York:

"It shall be an essential duty of the Commissioner to enforce the provisions of the law and the statutory regulations relative to the issue of notes and the maintenance of the banks' reserves which guarantee that issue. To this effect the Commissioner shall have the right to have furnished to him all statistics and documents which he may deem useful for the accomplishment of his task, and whenever it appears to him necessary he may make any investigation, either in person or through his assistants. He shall be entitled to be present at the meetings of the managing board in Berlin. The office intrusted with the custody of the reserve of notes shall only deliver notes when authorised by the Commissioner to do so."

Although the news reports from the London meeting are of a general, nature only, there is naturally considerable speculation upon the amount of the final annual Reparations bill which Germany will be asked to pay. The Dawes Committee recommended that the annual payments shall approximate 2,500,000,000 gold marks, plus whatever additional sums may be produced by the index of prosperity, but all subject to a practical demonstration that payments of such size can be made without breaking down the exchanges and monetary system.

In case the payment of Gold marks 2,500,000,000 as the maximum annual amount is decided upon, France will receive a little above G.$300,000,000 which is hardly sufficient to meet the interest on the bonds she has sold for reconstruction purposes at the rates they now bear. The old position of M. Poincare prior to the report of the Dawes Commission was that France must have enough from Germany to reimburse the reconstruction expenditures and, in addition, pay her debts to Great Britain and the United States, whose claims against France amount to more than her reconstruction indebtedness.

If this is the final outcome, the success of the plan ultimately may hinge upon the attitude of America and Great Britain on the subject of a reduction of their debts due from France. To put it another way, the Conference in London is considering the Reparations Problem not from the standpoint of inflicting penalties upon a defeated Germany: that is now a matter of the past. The subject now is a much broader one and consists in devising means for assisting in the economic recovery of all European peoples. The report itself, in the second paragraph states that the "guarantees proposed are economic, not political."

The present Conference in London is said to be the eighteenth which has been held on the enforcement of the Versailles Treaty since 1918 and up to the present nothing has resulted. Now there is a universal feeling that the five years which have passed have at last brought the realisation that something must be done if the world is to be saved from complete demoralisation. Although the unsettlement of the reparations problem has had its chief reactions in the European countries directly involved, it has had its further reactions all over the world. In America the reaction has been felt in low prices prevailing for agricultural products, which, in turn, has its resultant in political unrest culminating in the present organisation of a radical third party in the national election this year. In the Orient there has also been a reaction in the continued depression prevalent in the China trade due almost directly to the stoppage of European markets for Chinese raw products.

Now, however, as stated above, a new spirit prevails and the possibilities of a fair settlement of the question is apparently on the way. No one is going to come out of the London Conference a winner. That spirit, is now well past. The question at issue now is, how much may be sacrificed all around in order that a just settlement may be arrived at. Germany, on her part, must, in order to meet her obligations, adopt taxation measures to the limit of her capacity and this must not be less than the taxes paid in competing countries. France must also adopt taxation measures in order that the whole burden of her reconstruction and war debts shall not fall upon her share of the German Reparations. America and Britain also must make sacrifices in the reduction of their debts due from France, either in principal or annual interest payments which will come within the ability of France to pay. Although the general subject of the European War debts is not supposed to be a subject for consideration at the London meeting, it nevertheless is there and cannot be passed over. To put it in another way, conditions in Germany must be so stabilised that America and Britain can afford to lend her the money to pay the Reparations to France in order that France, in turn, can pay her debts to America and Britain, thus completing the circle.

A Time Of Tribulation

IT is generally true in the affairs of men and nations that it never rains but it pours. Grave misfortunes rarely come singly but in a sort of overwhelming avalanche that leaves the puny mind of man dazed and crushed. We who live in the comfort and security of these Settlements cannot, perhaps, fully appreciate the extent of the havoc wrought by, and the misery caused to, countless Chinese families by the disastrous floods that have descended over widely scattered regions of the country. From Foochow, Kalgan, Peking and Tientsin, as well as parts of Central China come grave tidings of an unprecedented deluge which is interpreted by superstitious Chinese as an ominous augury directly attributable to over a decade of callous misrule and self-seeking on the part of Government officials and militarists.

In the last two or three weeks, several districts of the province of Fukien have been overwhelmed by absolutely devastating floods. The residents of the well-known city of Foochow, who had never previously seen much water in the streets even after excessive rains, have now had the dismal experience of witnessing their homes standing several feet in water. The loss of life and property is, of course, incalculable and the suffering of the unfortunate victims would require the pen of a Gibbon adequately to describe. In the district of Yu-chi, a disastrous flood swept ruthlessly across the region and left many homeless and penniless in its wake. Again from the district of Chang Ping disturbing messages have been received to the effect that the entire city has been virtually wiped out by a diabolical deluge that could never have been dreamed of in the philosophy of the populace in their wildest flights of fancy. All the above enumerated districts are appealing for help. The Fukien Guild of Shanghai, the membership of which is composed of Fukienese residing in Shanghai, are doing all in their power to assist the affected regions. The sum of about $10,000 has already been telegraphed by the Guild to various districts in need of succor. But this sum, of course, is a mere bagatelle in view of the number of people in need of urgent help. More funds are needed, and although it is true that both the Chinese and foreign public have generously loosened their purse-strings with more and more frequency within recent times, we know that the great heart of the Shanghai public will not remain unresponsive in connection with this fresh call on their liberality. It has been said that a child is born in some part of the world every minute. In the same way, it might almost be said that some part or other of the world is exposed to the angry forces of nature every day in the year, and so long as such conditions endure—and they will probably continue till the crack of doom—more fortunately placed people will find it hard to resist the appeal to their generosity.

In the matter of floods no less than in that of brigandage and piracy sins of omission on the part of the Chinese authorities are only too clearly discernible. In this connection, it is pointed out by a Tientsin contemporary that it is no extraordinary rainfall that causes floods in Chihli province, but simply lack of means of dealing with a rainfall which is quite moderate as compared with many other regions. Thus the rainfall of the week before last amounted only to six inches at Tientsin. It is reported that it was heavier in other parts of the province. The actual figure, however, for July 8 to July 13, when there was rain every day, was 6.075 inches as recorded at the Gordon Hall meteorological office. This nearly equals the total rainfall for the whole month of July last year, and it represents a large volume of water. A one-inch rainfall over one acre weighs just one hundred tons, and after a fall of at least six hundred tons per acre over the entire drainage area of the Chihli rivers, and in some districts, as reported, eight hundred tons per acre in one day, it will be seen that the river engineers have an enormous force to contend with. A rainfall six inches in six days, however, is not a very extraordinary occurrence. and even that amount of rain in one day, in a well-administered country, would bring about no crisis, but would probably be contemplated with satisfaction at a time when water needing crops of kaoliang, millet, rice and maize demand a full supply of rain.

A correspondent of the North China Daily Mail mentions having spent a holiday at Obama in Japan when sixteen inches fell in as many hours. He admits that the land looked wet but there was no idea of disaster. In Burma and Assam eleven inches in one fall is not uncommon, but it causes no more than quite ordinary precautions and a busy time in the waterproof and umbrella trade. If a six-inch or even a twelve-inch rainfall can cause so much apprehension in Chihli province and adjacent regions, where there is, during the greater part of the year, a chronic shortage of rainwater, it is evident that a great deal more needs to be done than has yet been effected in the way of utilizing profitably one of Heaven's greatest gifts. The present aim of the authorities is to run off into the sea as expeditiously as possible so that the cities may not be flooded, and it has been stated that it is better to drown a few villagers and their homesteads than allow the towns to be swamped. It reminds one of the custom of ancient Latium of casting a few village maidens into the crater of Vesuvius so that Herculaneum and Pompeii might carry on their trade undisturbed by the fire god, or the classic story of the monster who came up from the sea and demanded to be satiated by human sacrifices, peasantry preferred, in order that he might be persuaded to spare the people of the city. It may be that there are occasions when dykes should be opened and the country flooded, but if the provincial government is reduced to such an expedient by a not unprecedented rainfall one can only say that it is an indication of gross Governmental ineptitude. The bounteous rain is required for use and should be kept for use to the amount needed. This is by no means beyond the capacity of man. It is done in Northern India by a beneficent Government. One should like to see a beneficent Government in Peking bending efforts in the same direction. Flood prevention is one of the things on which some of the Governmental energy daily frittered away in non-essentials might be expended.

TEN SUCCESS HUNCHES

A very human letter lies before me. "I read your articles," says the writer, a young man, "and have been especially interested in those that touch upon ambition and opportunity.

"Now I would like you to answer me just one question. What is a young man to do when he reaches the age of twenty-one with no special training? He has lots of ambition, besides ability to work, but he finds that this talk about courage and will-power is nothing but rot. For wherever he seeks an opportunity to start from the bottom, no one pays attention. The very men who preach opportunity and rising to high position in life by hard work refuse to make a place for him. They tell you about using your brains, but at the same time they don't give you a chance to use them.

"Can you explain how in the world there is any opportunity in such a case?"

Well, in the first place, living all those years until twenty-one without training is a crime. But perhaps it was not your fault. If you ever have children, however, see that you do not wrong them as your parents and the State, and possibly yourself, wronged you.

Still, at twenty-one you have the world before you. Perhaps these hints may help you:

1. Don't be impatient. It's a life job you're tackling. Set your jaw. Plan for years, not for tomorrow only.

2. Remember that your real success takes place inside of your mind. It's not facts, nor others' acts, nor events, that matter. Nothing matters in the long run but the temper of your spirit. Keep thinking success; and the more you are rebuffed the harder you must think it.

3. You seem sorry for yourself. That looks bad. Flee thoughts of self-pity as you would the devil. Are you alive and kicking, and have you a clear head and two good hands, and are you out of jail? If so, you're in luck.

4. Study. I'll venture to say you waste enough spare time in four years to make a doctor's degree. Find out what you want to do. Say it's engineering. Take up a course of study in that direction.

5. Do well what you can find to do. Do it with all your skill and enthusiasm. Do it better than anyone else can do it. Do it—and keep your eye open for something better. Be efficient. Every factory, store, and farm in the world is hungry for the man who can do the business and not make excuses.

"Creation's cry goes up
From age to cheated age:
Give us the men who do the work
For which they get the wage."

6. Don't fret. Don't worry. Have faith. Believe in yourself. Believe in the world. Believe in the Eternal Justice. If you do, the stars will fight for you. And if you don't believe, if you complain and get it into your head that this world is down on you, why, it will come down on you and smash you, and you'll get what you believed in. Everybody does.

7. Be persistent. Fortune's a fickle jade. If she does not say yes the first five times you ask her, ask her twenty-five times. After a while she will favor you, for she loves importunity.

8. Get the luck idea out of your head. There is such a thing as luck. But that is not what you are looking for. What you want is success. And there's no luck about that. It's just as certain as the corn crop to those who know how to raise it.

9. Don't expect anything of anybody but yourself.

10. And keep cheerful. It's all in a lifetime. Meanwhile there are doughnuts and coffee. And the pleasant sun is shining. I suspect you are missing a lot of happiness because you don't know it when you see it.

Do you remember what Lincoln said?

"I have noticed that most people in this world are about as happy as they have made up their minds to be."

Something To Think About

By Bruno Lessing

HEALTH AND HAPPINESS

Hume, the historian, says "the disposition to see the favorable rather than the unfavorable side of things brings more happiness than to be heir to an estate of 10,000 pounds a year."

Lecky, an equally eminent historian, says 'the gift of a happy temperament is greatly due to bodily conditions."

So there you are. We all want happiness. And health has much to do in creating happiness. Therefore, let's all be healthy.

The effects of good and bad health go even further than their influence upon temperament. Intellectual ability, morals and will power are likewise affected by the condition of the body.

America is now planning a "Health Week." About all that you can do for your health in a week is to get a fair start. To maintain good health and enjoy all the possibilities of happy development, requires exactly fifty-two health weeks a year.

How can the country be made more healthy? To maintain good health requires good food, good drinks, regular habits, and a certain amount of outdoor exercise. Unfortunately we have very little of these in the United States.

It is a fine thing for young people to play baseball or to ride horses. It is not so beneficial to health to sit on a hard bench and watch a professional baseball game or a horse race. Yet the latter sports are more popular than the former.

As a nation, we have not yet learned the A B C of cooking or eating. The frying pan has caused more physical agony in this land than any chronic disease. The French know how to cook and how to eat. The Czecho-Slovaks know it even better. A true Bohemian would as soon eat a ragout of shoe leather as a New England boiled dinner.

As for drinks—well, we must respect the Eighteenth Amendment. But it raised havoc with the American digestive organs. The choice now lies between ice-water and ginger ale or sparkling water or other deadly foes of metabolism and bootleg whiskey.

And there are so many temptations to break the regularity of one's habits! Theaters, cabarets, dancing, trying to get Honolulu on the radio, a thrilling mystery novel that you can't lay down—all of them seem to conspire against "early to bed and early to rise."

Yet the maintenance of perfect health ought to be each individual's serious duty. Like every other duty, it frequently involves the sacrifice of a short-lived pleasure.

Always remember, however, that you are not enjoying the "grand time" you had last Wednesday night on the following Thursday morning. But you always ARE glad that you went to bed early for the past three months, that you ate only what agreed with you, that you took a walk every day—even if you did not feel like it—and that your health is in fine shape because of the things that you "passed up."

It's all a matter of "passing up."

Science And "Metapsychics"

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

Some two thousand five hundred years ago metaphysics was born, as a "science" of things beyond the knowable, that is beyond what can be cognized and proved by material senses and physical ordeals. Aristotle was the putative father of metaphysics. But Aristotle was also the tutor of Alexander the Great, one of the clearest-headed geniuses that history has known. Alexander was very fond of his tutor, but we may be sure that it was not Aristotle's ideas about metaphysics that aroused the enthusiasm of the nascent conqueror of the world. For Alexander, Aristotle dealt with the practical and the tangible.

Today we have a new form of "science" of the unknowable, which outsteps metaphysics. It is called "metapsychics." As metaphysics professed to surpass physics, so metapsychics claims to go beyond physiology, or more exactly, belond "psycho-physiology," which is in substance the physics of mental action.

Metapsychics has been seized by the teachers of "spiritism," or "spiritualism," whichever you may choose to call it, as a godsend to furnish them with a scientific basis. But their opponents challenge, to start with, the claim of either metaphysics, or metapsychics, to a place among the sciences. They say there can be no science of the unprovable, and they call unprovable everything which cannot be tested by means of the physical senses. At the same time they recognize that those senses are subject to innumerable errors and hallucinations which need to be eliminated and corrected by means of repeated examination and by the application of reasoning.

On the other hand it should be clearly understood that science, in the sense just indicated for it, does not deny that there may exist things, or phenomena, that lie beyond its range, in a world to which tests depending upon the physical senses do not apply. But it does deny that the existence of such things can be demonstrated by scientific methods, for whatever such methods do demonstrate is proved by that very fact to be physical and not metaphysical in its nature. When so-called scientific investigations of the phenomena of "spiritualism" are undertaken it usually, if not invariably, happens that the most elementary precautions and safeguards by which the scientific investigator surrounds his ordinary work are set aside or forgotten. On the contrary, he permits himself to be deprived of the most obvious means of self-protection against the deceptions of his own senses, deceptions of whose existence and subtlety, he is nevertheless perfectly aware from daily experience. Any "metapsychic" phenomena which he may perceive in such circumstances can have no claim to being established by scientific observation and test.

It is often affirmed that Sir William Crookes tested the famous "medium" D. D. Home scientifically, and failed to detect any fraud in Home's extraordinary proceedings. But read the facts in the case, as far as they have been reported, and see if you can find evidence that either Sir William Crookes, or any other of the more or less scientifically-minded persons connected with the Home case, made any reliable test whatever.

There are some exceedingly interesting statements on this matter, and on other celebrated cases of a like kind, in Houdini's book, called "A Magician Among the Spirits." Houdini's thirty years of experience in investigating the mediums and reproducing and outdoing their tricks, seems quite to justify the following statement recently published by Dr. B. J. Logre, in Le Temps.

"Trickery in metapsychics employs above everything else prestidigitation. Having attended a number of seances we ought to make this avowal; all that we saw appeared to us to be far beneath the marvels that are currently performed by professional prestidigators. And these latter do not employ darkness as an accomplice, nor give themselves out as messengers from beyond."

DRESS

Black Satin, Dear to the Heart of the French Dressmaker, Makes Strong Appeal to Young American Girls

"Not at all suitable for a young girl," is the verdict of many a mother when her eighteen-year or twenty-year-old daughter announces her intention of ordering, buying or making for herself a frock or wrap of black satin.

The young daughter protests that black satin is exactly what she wants and the mother sighs. "One might think you were a grandmother. Why, when I was a girl nobody but old ladies wore black satin."

Doubtless true. And in those days alpaca was considered a very prim and proper and prosaic material, and calico was thought of as only suitable for morning frocks of country housewives, and cretonne was never used for frocks or wraps and chintz was regarded as suitable only for upholstering, for window curtains and knitting bags. Years have wrought great change in the status and significance of various materials. The material that was prudish and proper yesterday becomes almost rakish tomorrow.

Black satin has been used abundantly in the making of coats and capes for spring and summer. Some of the stores have offered quite inexpensive but none the less smart little straight, long capes, and quite a number of clever women have found the task of making these little black satin capes not too complicated for the home sewing room.

The smart French dressmakers and designers seem to revel in black satin its immense popularity this spring does not seem to made it any the less desirable. From a practical point of view a rather thin but good quality of black satin is an excellent material for the general utility warm-weather frock. It sheds the dust as few fabrics will and is far less likely to wrinkle than the equally dust-shedding alpaca. A really good quality black satin is about as impervious to dampness and dust as any fabric might well be.

The sketch shows how one dressmaker used black satin—sleeveless frock with a little jacket of the same material lined with red chiffon embroidered in gold.

Black satin frock has jacket of satin lined with red chiffon embroidered in gold.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

YOUR WORK FROCKS

They should be easily washed. For this reason some closely woven cotton fabrics are not so desirable as more loosely woven fabrics. Other things being equal, linen or such silks as pongee would be even more desirable because of the ease with which they may be washed.

They should be suited to work. This means short sleeves, fairly short skirt and enough width of skirt to make it possible to take easy steps.

They should be presentable. There is a distinct advantage to the busy housewife if her work frock is even suitable to wear on the street. Then it is possible to take a trip to the shops or on some other errand without taking time to dress especially for it. For this reason a straight, slip-on frock of some wash material that can be worn with some sort of coat sweater or other sport jacket makes a satisfactory type of work frock.

They should be inexpensive to make it possible to have a number of them. On the other hand there seems to be true economy in paying enough for them to insure good material. One housewife has actually found that it pays to have house frocks of white linen, because they never have to be discarded on account of fading, and because they can be washed so easily.

FORMAMINT
THE GERM KILLING THROAT TABLET

If you Suffer from "Smoker's Throat"

—or other painful irritations of the oral cavity you should at once use FORMAMINT.

"In both acute and chronic pharyngitis, induced by abuse of tobacco, Formamint Tablets have proved particularly efficacious in the hands of the medical profession," writes the Medical Press.

Sucking these palatable, harmless tablets promotes an abundant flow of saliva, which itself is rendered germicidal. Thus the whole mouth and throat are slowly saturated with a soothing, healing antiseptic fluid, which penetrates everywhere.

With the destruction of the causative bacteria, swelling and inflammation subside, and Nature does the rest—without the fuss and trouble of old-fashioned methods like gargling or painting the throat with caustic and nauseating chemicals.

WRITE TO-DAY FOR FULL PARTICULARS

WULFING'S

FORMAMINT
The Germ-Killing Throat Tablet

Just as effectively—and by the same process—does Formamint safeguard you against dangerous infections which start in the mouth and throat—Influenza, for example, Diphtheria, Scarlet Fever, Measles, Mumps, and the dreaded Pyorrhoea.
